Jorden hits century in trophy

Clandown's Lee Jorden bagged another century break as the group stage came to a close in the inaugural Ken Cox Memorial Trophy run by the Bath Billiards and Snooker League.

The competition is a singles handicapped format limited to 32 entrants and started in September with the initial round robin group stages. During the final round of group games, Jorden faced Dan Hale and managed an outstanding break of 101 to back up his 112 from last season. Jorden went on to complete a 3-0 win to top Group 2.

The winners and runners-up from the group have progressed to the main knockout draw for the Trophy, while the other 16 have been drawn in the Plate competition. The first knockout matches are due to be played by the week ending November 8.

Team competitions have been cancelled for the 2020/21 season. In the absence of team games, the league are still taking entries for all league singles and pairs competitions which are due to being in January.
